ROCK PAPER SCISSOR

Origin

The first known mention of the game Rock Paper Scissors was found in the book 'Wuzazu'. This book was written by the Chinese Ming-dynasty writer Xie Zhaozhi.

Subsequent mentions of Rock Paper Scissors are found in Japan, a country that's often (mistakenly) credited as the birthplace of the game.

ROCK PAPER SCISSOR

Origin

Given the popularity of the game and our tendency to turn hobbies into money-making opportunities, we should not be surprised by the existence of professional rock papers scissors leagues.

One of the best-known competitors is Jason Simmons, who is known as Master Roshambollah.

STEPS TO FOLLOW

3rd step

The strongest element scores one point, since... rock beats scissors, scissors beats paper, and paper beats rock; however, if both players make the same sign, no points are added.

4th step

The first player to add 3 points wins.

VARIETY 1 – HOW TO PLAY IT

Two people stand next to each other, with their legs together. They play “rock paper scissors”, and the person who wins crosses his legs moving to the opposite side. So the person who has lost, has to place his leg (only one) next to his mate's leg.

Now you have to continue playing rock, paper, scissors. The purpose of the game is not to fall down. If you do it, you will loose!

VARIETY 2 – HOW TO PLAY IT

Players are divided into two teams. Each team faces each other and one person places in the middle. We assign numbers to each team member and they make a line (each group). Now the person in the middle shouts a number and the two people who have that number in each team have to run until they face each other, and that's where they have to play 'rock, paper, scissors'. Then, the winner has to continue running forward to the rival. Meanwhile another person runs against him, because when someone loses, another team mate has to run until they face each other again.

Now you continue doing this, until someone arrives where the other team started. And when this happens, the person in the middle says another number. The winning team will be the one with no players at the starting point.
